PROSPECT GOOD FOR CALIFORNIA

Second Victory in Sight Today—Made Good Showing Yesterday.

By DAVID J. WALSH.

International News Service Sports Editor.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 27.—The final events of the intercollegiate track and field championships came down to a decision today with the prospect of another California victory so imminent as to leave no reasonable doubt.

If California wins today, which is tantamount to saying if Bryan is a Democrat, it will be the second Bear victory in succession.

We have figured them to score between 35 and 40 points and that will be enough. Cornell cannot be reckoned for more than 30 points and Princeton, the remaining Eastern factor, for 25.

No California man figured to score in the sprints, although Hutchinson, who won the meet last year, qualified in the furlong. Hendrixson, however, should score well in the quarter; Merchant and Witter in the shot-put, Morris in the pole-vault; Muller and Treyer in the high jump; Sorrent and Merchant in the javelin throw; Muller and Berkey in the discus and the same Merchant again in the hammer-throw. This gifted individual is the life blood of the California team.

Records were threatened in many events yesterday. Merchant hung up new figures in the hammer-throw yesterday, 171 feet 2 inches; Leoney equaled the game's record in the century, 9.45 seconds in winning his heat, and Woodring made no bones about the fact that he is shooting for a new mark in the furlong.

If Merchant scores as he should, Alvin Kraenzlin's individual point record of 18, made many years ago, is in grave danger.

FIGHT AGAINST E. MONT REILLY REACHES HEAD

Unionistas Lead Action Against Harding Appointee, Charging Opposition to Independence.

ATTACK NOT PERSONAL

Both Sides Await Decision of President and Secretary of War as to Federal Action.

By J. H. FURAY

(Foreign Editor of The United Press.)

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 27.—The fight between Governor E. Mont. Reilly of Porto Rico and the leaders of the Unionista party, now apparently approaching a crisis, began a short time after Reilly assumed office.

Its beginnings are somewhat difficult to trace. Some declare that it had its inception in a paragraph in Reilly's inaugural denouncing the agitation in some quarters of independence of the island. He declared that there is in the United States "no sympathy or possible hope or independence for Porto Rico" and added that "Old Glory has come to stay."

At the time, many regarded this as a slap at the Unionista party, which up to that time had an independence plank in its platform. Thousands of one-star flags—betokening a demand for independence—were then flying through Porto Rico.

Others say that this pronouncement in itself did not start the political battle directly, although they say it had a bearing on it, because it indicated antagonism to the Unionistas, which party was and is the overwhelmingly dominant faction in island politics.

Unionista partisans declare that their fight is not on Reilly personally, but on his politics. They say that their party elected one-fifth of the membership of the lower house of the insular legislature and a still greater percentage of the senate membership. These representatives were elected overwhelmingly by the people, they assert, showing in no uncertain way that the people of Porto Rico want that party to govern.

It was Governor Reilly's appointment of some cabinet posts that opened the fight in earnest.

Friends of Governor Reilly say he has taken a strong stand against independence and secession and that this stand is the root of the political warfare. If Reilly will "surrender," as they characterize it, he can immediately become the most popular and carefree man in the island.

But they add that "surrender" would involve dismissal of non-Unionista or "continental" cabinet officers and the complete turning over of the government of the island to the Unionistas, with himself as a mere figurehead. This, they say, he cannot do.

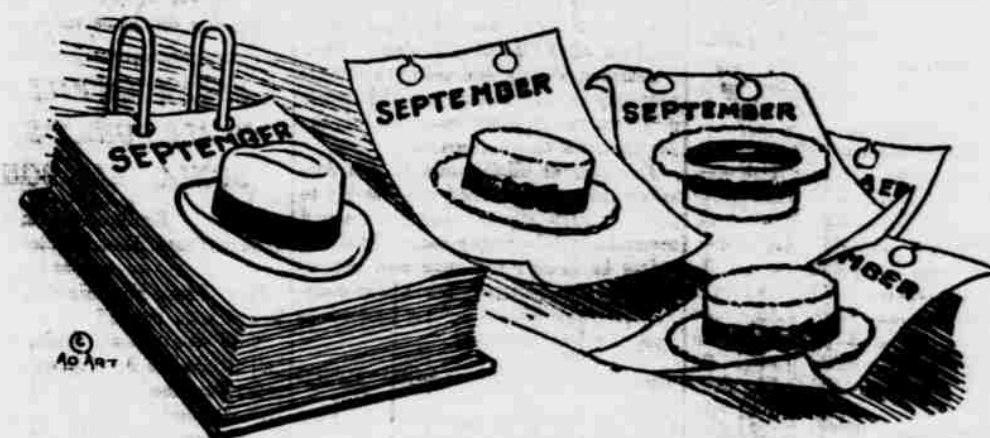

Felix Cordova Davila, Porto Rico's resident commissioner in Washington, has been one of the leading figures in the fight to oust Reilly. He laid before Congress a series of charges against the governor and has pushed them unrelentingly. Simultaneously, the insular grand jury investigated the governor's expense warrants. It did not indict the governor, but it endeavored to return a report strongly criticizing him and his administration.

Judge Foote, the presiding judge, refused to receive the report and declared the grand jury adjourned. During the heat of the controversy over the investigation, Governor Reilly summarily dismissed Ramon Collazo, fiscal (district) attorney, alleging that Collazo had tried to get another federal job in exchange for the dropping of the grand jury proceedings.

Several efforts have been made to compose the differences. The most notable occurred late in March when Reilly and Don Antonio Barcelo held a secret eight-hour conference at Salinas. Rumors of a compromise and the "surrender" of Reilly were rife at the time, but nothing tangible came of the meeting.

The situation since then has mostly marked time, leaders of both sides awaiting the final decision of President Harding and Secretary of War Weeks.

A School that costs $300 a Minute

The great problem today—of merchant, of manufacturer, of publisher—is the problem of Markets. Where is the market for my goods? Who will buy? What shall I say to them? How? Am I doing the best that can be done? Those who know—not guess, but know—the answers to such questions are fit to meet the selling problems of today. All others must either fail or struggle along with only a portion of the success they might easily enjoy.

There will be a great Forum—a great School of Experience—in session when business men gather for the

Eighteenth Annual Convention ASSOCIATED ADVERTISING CLUBS OF THE WORLD Milwaukee, June 11 to 15, 1922

To attend this school, men will travel half way around the world, and thousands will come from every quarter of the United States and Canada; and the cost of the convention, in traveling expense and other outgo of the delegates, will be at least $300 a minute for every hour the convention is in session. And it will be worth it.

A great exhibit of foreign and domestic advertising, in addition to the general sessions and the departmental meetings of the convention, will afford a rich harvest of practical ideas and helpful plans for those who want to improve their advertising and selling methods to meet the demand of the times.

Again this year, businessmen and women can attend these sessions without holding membership in the Association. The central location of Milwaukee, its wonderful transportation facilities and the fact that June is Wisconsin's ideal month, insure a very large attendance.
